THIS GIANT STEELMAKER'S PERSONAL TOUCH

matches steel to the job for smoother production and better products

A giant among world steelmakers is in the making on the horizon from Hamilton, Ontario.

Springing from a small foundry operation in 1912, Dofasco has emerged as one of Canada's largest basic steel producers. Today, a substantial share of the nation's flat rolled coils is produced on this 250-acre site in the heart of Ontario's industrial community.

An important key to this massive growth has been, and will be, the "personal touch" Dofasco applies in all customer contact.

No one is more conscious of this importance of this kind of individual attention than the company's steel users and engineers. They welcome opportunities to get right to the heart of any steel problem. "Steel is equipment" plans and decisions with consulting personnel are part of their job. Frequently, these skilled Dofasco technicians are called in at the drawing board stage so that their experience and know-how can be applied to production of better products at lower cost.

On occasion, the "personal touch" requires Dofasco metallurgists to take on the role of trouble-shooters in a steel producer's plant to help pinpoint product flaws or quality production obstacles. If steel is found to be the problem, a proper analysis is provided that will get production quickly back on the rails.

Back in Hamilton, Dofasco metallurgists specify the processing details for every ton of steel that is produced in its mills. Production orders precisely detail the amounts of carbon or manganese and the exact heating and cooling cycles required to ensure the proper detailing, forming, pickling, corrosion resistance or painting properties required by the customer.

To assure uniformity in future orders, detailed processing reports are issued and a repeat order five years later will match exactly the steel delivered in a manufacturing today.

These "personal touches" are only some of the reasons why steel buyers are exhibiting growing confidence in Dofasco of Hamilton and why Dofasco's output production today towers over one and a half million tons each year!

Effective contact to customers' needs must be supported, of course, by modern production facilities. Since 1914, Dofasco of Hamilton has invested over $250,000,000 in new blast furnaces, scrap steel melting equipment, rolling mills and other up-to-the-minute installations that have earned for Dofasco a reputation as Canada's premier steel producer.

OF HAMILTON

Ray Hindey, a Dofasco troubleshooter with years of steel job know-how, helps to diagnose a loss in production problems. Experienced counseling of this nature is part of the "personal touch" Dofasco delivers with every ton of steel purchased.

Joe MacIsaac, Dofasco representative, takes in the air to assess the steel requirements of a Dofasco customer far from the Hamilton base.

Frequently Dofasco of Hamilton technicians participate in product planning at the drawing stage so that the right steel can be produced for maximum performance.

Another Dofasco "personal touch": Rigid laboratory control is maintained throughout the steel-making process to insure strict adherence to customer's requirements.

The basic freedoms and rights of all citizens are now challenged by the modern state and the police even more so after April 4. Because a man can be in a politically "hot" place at a hot time in an urban locale he has to be controlled by police organizations. The police are not the "good guys" promised but a more often than not, unacknowledged institution that the "nation's" people live. Many of our problems are different ones along a different path and other socializing path. There is also a smaller nation who are not so much a nation as a people. There is no one to whom a nation be disloyal to give greater power over the public domain, we would be just removing our kind of hostility. Chafee, who is also a police officer, has been particularly vocal in his criticism of the officers' union. "I don't think the police are overpaid," he said. "I don't think they are overpaid in any other city in the country."

THE BATTLE OF NOUVEAU QUEBEC

In the cold war between the Ottawa and Quebec governments, no single issue is more bitter than control of the north and the northern people. The man who started the battle is René Lévesque, one of Canada's most controversial politicians. The people in the middle are 2,500 Eskimos who say they like the federal rule they've always had. Maclean's Ottawa editor reports from the battlefield and from behind the headquarters scene.

responsibility. There is no dispute about this — the Supreme Court of Canada in 1937 pronounced the Education Act "ultra vires" with the passing of the British North America Act, and therefore under federal jurisdiction.

But for years, says President John Levesque, involved Power Manners Inc., Dedham, Mass., that Quince refused to take on this responsibility in order that Quince's business might be not "washed out" after 30-day ordinary time-outs of the primary and state fully in its progress of economic development. Economic growth, economic health and well as workers' all such naturally promotional functions would be founded upon by the federal departments of commerce, all efforts to the Quince depart most of national resources and its fully engaged productivity. What we are asking governments about this impact already about the threat of oil strikes points to the fact that we cannot afford to ignore this issue. Canada's present government, if it has been kind of polite for several years to neglect the interests with the rest of the population, it is now neglecting the interests of the oil-producing provinces. The hard right-brained Tories have been under provincial control ever since Newfoundland and joined Canada in 1949. In the terms of this act, the oil-producing provinces are not in the hands of the people. Manitoba will allow Canadian Eskimos live on the Northwest Territories and therefore allow Indian and Eskimo to live on the Northwest Territories. The government has suggested that responsibility for the Eskimos be transferred.

What this is dramatically showing is that the government is not aware of the present state of reason in the last 100 years.

If you think heating comfort at moderate cost is the only advantage of electric heating... meet the Martins... of Lindsay

Doug and Jean Martin and their three children live in Lindsay, Ontario. Three years ago, when they were building their home, they thought electric heating would be expensive. In their own words, they "had to be talked into it." Now they talk about it. And what they say may prove very helpful to you in making up your mind about electric heating for your next home.

"YOU MIGHT THINK IT'S BILLS..." but our bird sings a lot more with electric heating," says Mrs. Martin. We don't think it's silly Mrs. Martin. Dozens of people here tell us that people, please, and put off even to three later in electrically heated homes.

"THE CHILDREN HAVEN'T HAD COLDS!" Mrs. Martin says. "I don't know whether that has anything to do with electric heat or not but I'm very thankful!"

Many people are so talked to feel their freedom from cold is due to the fact that the air is warm too dry with electric heating. And many with allergies say that, since the air is drier, they don't seem to be bothered as much.

"THE CEILING GOES UP TO SEVENTEEN FEET here in the living room. It's a large room but it stays comfortable!" Mrs. Martin explains. "We don't use this room as much as we use the two rooms of extra, but when you need the heat, it's here."

Electric heating costs only five, you know from here to now. It is cheap to provide heat when and where it's needed.

"WE HAVE SEVEN ROOMS ON FOUR LEVELS," says Mr. Martin. "and electric heat gives me more in my thermostat. With the system I first considered we wouldn't have had that. We're heating 1000 sq. ft., including a big recreation room on the first floor plus a basement. I thought it was going to be expensive. But I've changed my mind completely."

Interview after interview, people have told us they would never go back to any other heating system.

"MY CURTAINS STAY CLEAN LONGER. I don't think any home with three children is completely free of dust but I find it very easy to keep this one clean because there's no grime or dirt from electric heating."

People everywhere tell us about the cleanliness of electric heating. Because it's fireless, it won't possibly create dust or dirt!

Electric heating is one of the many comfort features of the famous Hydrex heat electric homes. For full information consult a qualified electric heating contractor in your neighborhood.

On Their Merit

Graduating Officer Cadets at the Canadian Services Colleges can look forward to challenging and rewarding careers as officers in the service of their choice. They will enjoy opportunity of advancement, leadership, and the high regard of their fellow citizens. Most important of all they will have the personal satisfaction of making a contribution to world peace.

Young men interested in a career in Canada's Armed Forces should consider the Canadian Services Colleges as a means to achieving this goal.

There are three Canadian Services Colleges. The Royal Military College of Canada (RMC), Kingston, Ontario; Royal Roads (RR), Victoria, B.C.; and the College Militaire Royal de St. Jean (CMR), St. Jean, P.Q.

More than three quarters of the instruction is in academic subjects of the degree programme with the remainder devoted to military training and a broad range of activities. During the summer, Cadets receive training with their respective Services.

For the final two years of the course, Cadets from Royal Roads and CMR join their contemporaries at RMC, from where they graduate as commissioned officers in the service of their choice — the Royal Canadian Navy, the Canadian Army or the Royal Canadian Air Force — and are awarded degrees in Arts, Science or in Engineering.

The overall programme is devoted to the development of character, acceptance of responsibility and qualities of leadership fitting these potential officers for careers in the Armed Forces.

With double confidence and determination, these young cadets of the Canadian Services Colleges begin their careers as officers in the Armed Forces.

This summer about 150 young men from every part of Canada will be selected for enrolment in the Canadian Services Colleges under the aegis of the Reserve Officer Training Plan (ROTP). An equivalent number will also be selected for training at Canadian universities as ROTP cadets. While diverse academic and physical standards must be met, the applicant's attitude and desire to succeed are also important factors. Personal interviews and aptitude tests help to ensure that only those who meet the high standards will be accepted for enrolment. Successful candidates are selected and will advance on one broad slope — ON THEIR MERIT.

The former privilege of promising candidates to apply for Reserve Entry to the Services Colleges has been reinstated. A limited number of applicants are considered, in competition with those for ROTP, and may receive at their own expense the academic and military training afforded by the Services Colleges. On graduation, Reserve Entry cadets receive their degrees and are commissioned as officers in the Active component of Canada's Reserve Forces.

Applicants for ROTP enrolment in the Canadian Services Colleges or a university, or for Reserve Entry, must be made by senior and junior instructions not later than July 1st, for the following term. University undergraduates may apply at any time during the academic year. Enrolment is both selective and limited. Early application is advisable.

More information regarding tuition, board, lodging, uniforms, books, instruments, pay, and medical and dental care may be obtained from the nearest Navy, Army or Air Force Recruiting Office, or by writing to the Director, ROTP, Department of National Defence, Ottawa 4, Ontario.

In their only role as ROTP officers, they are a real life situation for these young men chosen to be officers in the Armed Forces.

Out of the classroom and on the job — a cadet in the field of battle, in Canada's modern army.

Colour them money...

Over the years you build, buy, accumulate... add to your possessions, improve your property. And over the years, press of goods and of building usually rise. The rest of home furnishings has gone up about 30%; in the past 15 years in Canada... building costs 36%. Suppose you had to replace some or all of your home or its contents because of fire, theft or damage. How would your insurance coverage stand up against today's costs?

If you haven't reviewed your coverage recently, now is the time to check things over with your local insurance agent. Ask him to show you the merits of "padding" your insurance in a ROYAL Homeowner's or Composite Dwelling Policy. You'll get best service, too, from ROYAL—largest worldwide insurer—and its agents.

NICKEL...its contribution is QUALITY

HOW INCO HELPED MAKE PROPELLERS LIGHTER YET STRONGER

The 45,270 ton S.S. Canberra is the largest liner to be built in the U.K. since the Queen Elizabeth. The fifth largest liner in the world, the Canberra features many innovations, including twin streamlined, side-by-side funnels; engine rooms located aft, instead of amidships; and huge propellers that can be locked together in any phase relationship, thus solving the problem of hull vibration. The Canberra's two 29-ton propellers are constructed of a nickel-aluminum-bronze alloy, developed by Inco. They are lighter, yet stronger than other types of propellers, and they are extremely resistant to corrosion and cavitation—long problems with marine propellers. The development of this special alloy is another example of Inco's continuing research contribution which, for some sixty years, has led to improved techniques and products.
